Oak Ridge, Tennessee 37831—

MAY 31 1996

Dear Resident:

MAYWOOD SITE - 1995 ENVIRONMENTAL SURVEILLANCE INFORMATION

As you may know, the Department of Energy (DOE) has a comprehensive program to monitor the environment in the area of the Maywood site, specifically the DOE-owned Maywood Interim Storage Site (MISS), located in Bergen County, New Jersey. MISS is used for interim storage of soil that was excavated from area properties during earlier DOE cleanups. The soil contains low levels of radioactive material that originated from work performed by the old Maywood Chemical Works, a private company that extracted the element thorium for use in the making of lighting devices, such as lantern mantles.

The environmental surveillance program is used to help ensure that no radioactive material associated with MISS makes its way into the environment where it is not supposed to be or at levels above strict environmental guidelines.

At and around the Maywood site are monitoring devices that allow DOE experts in environmental science to keep check on the quality of various environmental media, such as air, water and sediment. These monitoring devices are analyzed in laboratories throughout each year, and the resulting data are studied in detail. DOE has now completed its interpretation of the data collected during 1995 regarding MISS, and this letter summarizes the results.

Environmental surveillance activities at the site include:

- semiannual analysis of detectors that continuously monitor the air to determine average concentrations of radon-220 (usually referred to as thoron) and radon-222 gas;
- annual measurement of radon-222 flux (the emission rate of radon-222) from the surface of the storage pile at MISS;
- twice-a-year data collection from detectors that continuously measure external gamma radiation in the area of MISS, including natural background gamma radiation;
- annual analysis of groundwater samples for radioactive material, metals, volatile organic compounds, total petroleum hydrocarbons, and water quality; and
- quarterly analysis of sediment samples for radioactive material, and annual analysis of sediment samples for metals.

Maywood Area Resident:

2

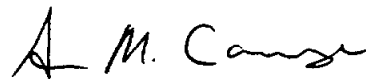

Results for the 1995 surveillance program are similar to results for previous years dating back to 1984 when the program began.

Concentrations of radon-222 in air were well below applicable guidelines, including those set by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA); concentrations of radon-220 exceeded the applicable limit at three locations on the DOE-owned property and at two locations immediately downwind of the MISS. Still, these exceedances are of no health concern because of the very low concentrations and because radon-220 gas dissipates in a matter of seconds in the air.

Concentrations of radioisotopes in groundwater were well below the applicable guidelines. It is important to note that, although groundwater at MISS is not a source for the area's drinking water, state and federal drinking water standards were used so that our analysis is as conservative as possible. In some wells on the DOE-owned property, concentrations of metals and volatile organic compounds exceeded these limits. No current drinking water sources are affected by the site.

Full copies of the technical memorandum regarding DOE's environmental surveillance program are available by calling the Maywood Information Center at 843-7466. I will be glad to speak with you if you have other questions about our environmental surveillance program. My number in Oak Ridge, Tennessee, is (423) 576-5724, or call 1-800-253-9759 and leave your name, number and a brief message, and someone will return your call promptly.

Sincerely,
